THE ASSOCIATION OF MATERNAL & CHILD HEALTH PROGRAMS

BOARD CORNER

By Sam Cooper III, LMSW-IPR

Welcome to a new feature of Member Briefs. As your president, I have the privilege to be able to work with an outstanding group of board members. These volunteer leaders were elected by you to provide for the care and future direction of AMCHP.

I want to use the space on this and future editions of Member Briefs to introduce you to your AMCHP Board of Directors. This information is meant to provide you with a resource for a new MCH connection, a better understanding of the board member roles, or simply to peak your interest in the work of your peers. We will link each "introduction" to the AMCHP website for more detailed biographical information. I hope that this will be useful for you.

With this inaugural Board Corner, I am pleased to introduce your president-elect, Eileen Forlenza. (For more information about Eileen, please visit AMCHP Board Member biographies here.) With her election this past January, Eileen brings her experience in state government, private sector business, and leadership development, not to mention her most important role as Mom. Eileen has worked in the Title V system in Colorado for nearly 15 years and has been dedicated to developing mechanisms to ensure that the perspective of the "end user" is leveraged as a quality improvement strategy. As a parent of a young adult with special health care needs, Eileen brings to this position a depth of experience in systems navigation, community inclusion and policy analysis.

She previously served as a family representative on the board for seven years and told me how honored she feels to be the first family leader delegate to be elected to this leadership role. When Eileen and I spoke about long-term vision, she shared, "My vision is that family leaders will be acknowledged and supported as part of the MCH workforce." The AMCHP commitment to family and professional partnership is a strength of the organization and with four of our current board members serving as family delegates, we have an excellent foundation for continued collaboration. In her current role as president-elect, Eileen is leading the Governance Committee and will be reaching out to you later this year to seek nominations for the next election.

Please take a moment to visit the AMCHP Board page on the website for more details and how you can reach her.

U.S. Supreme Court Cases

Young V. UPS: In late March 2015, the Supreme Court of the United States (SCOTUS) sent the case back to a lower court (4th Circuit Court of Appeals) to provide Peggy Young another opportunity to prove she was discriminated against under the Pregnancy Discrimination Act. The case involves a former UPS driver, Peggy Young, who sued UPS for pregnancy discrimination when she was denied accommodations during her pregnancy to preserve her health. This denial forced her to take unpaid leave and remain without health insurance during her pregnancy in 2006. The outcome of this case is critically important for pregnant women in the workforce especially since women today are more likely to work while pregnant, according to the Pew Research Center.

Armstrong v. Exceptional Child Center Inc: Also in late March 2015, SCOTUS ruled that "private healthcare providers cannot sue state Medicaid agencies over low reimbursement rates" (Modern Healthcare, 2015). This ruling reverses a lower court decision. A background on this case and the parties involved can be found at the Kaiser Family Foundation.

Special Enrollment Period (SEP)

This is a friendly reminder that the SEP ends on Apr. 30, 2015. This enrollment period is for individuals and families who did not have health coverage in 2014 and are subject to the fee or "shared responsibility payment" when they file their 2014 taxes in states that use the federally facilitated marketplaces (FFM). This special enrollment period will allow those individuals and families who were unaware or did not understand the implications of this new requirement to enroll in 2015 health insurance coverage through the FFM. More information can be found here.

Understanding Health Insurance & Benefits

Many individuals may be gaining access to health insurance for the first time. The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) developed tools and resources in their initiative, from Coverage to Care, that helps people understand their benefits and connects them to primary and preventive care. Gaining coverage is the first step, understanding how to utilize that coverage comes after. CMS has an upcoming webinars on understanding coverage and benefits.

Preventive Screenings 101 and Next Steps in Using Your Health Insurance: Join this special Minority Health Month webinar focused on preventive screenings and how to use your health insurance now that you are covered. Dr. Cara James, director of the CMS Office of Minority Health will highlight Coverage to Care materials on how to use your health insurance. Discuss recommended preventive screenings and learn highlights on how faith and other community-based organizations are using Coverage to Care tools to help those in their congregations and communities learn about and use their health insurance. The webinar will take place on Apr. 20 at 3 p.m. EST. To register, click here.

Congratulations to the Maternal and Child Health Public Health Leadership Institute (MCH PHLI) at the UNC-Chapel Hill Gillings School of Global Public Health, named a top-15 educational program by the 2015 Leadership 500 Excellence Award committee. New AMCHP Resource: Preconception Issue Brief

AMCHP developed an issue brief focusing on preconception health and health care. Despite improvements in the past few decades, infant and maternal deaths remain high in the United States. Preconception health and health care provide an opportunity to care for the health of a woman before she becomes pregnant in efforts to improve birth outcomes for mother and child. This issue brief, Opportunities and Strategies for Improving Preconception Health through Health Reform, explores how states can capitalize on the opportunities presented by health reform to improve birth outcomes, particularly through preconception health. It highlights state Title V MCH programs that participated in an action learning collaborative and are working to strengthen partnerships to implement preconception health activities, enhance preventive care for women, explore financing options for preconception care services, and use data to inform policy and program development.

CDC Releases a New Vital Signs Report on Preventing Teen Pregnancy

According to the new Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Vital Signs report, teen births continue to decline in the United States, but still more than 273,000 infants were born to teens ages 15 to 19 in 2013. Childbearing during the teen years can carry health, economic, and social costs for mothers and their children. The good news is that more teens are waiting to have sex, and of those who are sexually active, nearly 90 percent used birth control the last time they had sex. Data show that teens most often use condoms and birth control pills that, when not used consistently and correctly, are less effective for preventing pregnancy.
