THE ASSOCIATION OF MATERNAL & CHILD HEALTH PROGRAMS

MANAGEMENT MINUTE

Supposing is good, but finding out is better.

~ Mark Twain

In the last Management Minute, I promised to share some highlights from what we've learned so far during our strategic planning member engagement process. To be truthful, it's a bit overwhelming. I'm not going to fulfill my promise completely just yet. You gave us much to think about and to use to get organized for the next iterations of our planning. Trust me, you're helping us 'find out' and not just 'suppose.' But, there are some things that are important for you to know now.

Your every comment, your every contribution to a discussion – virtual or in person – has mattered and will make a difference.

The inputs received by social media, e-mail, live interviews at AMCHP 2015, regional teleconferences and the in-person regional meetings were tremendous. So amazing, in fact, that we're going to need some time and professional help sifting through the massive data and emerging with broader themes and concepts. I know absolutely that many of these themes and concepts will shape our 2015-2018 strategic plan. Some of this feedback may help us think about high-level strategies including mission and vision, while others may help us hone in on operational level activities.

The engagement process has worked and will continue to work.

We've receive a lot of healthy feedback that you felt energized by the regional and other discussions. There were comments that the regional lunch discussions felt purposeful in ways that have not been experienced for some time. The dialogues and conversations were rich. The opportunities to network and share thoughts among colleagues was useful. We want and need more of this and will continue to provide opportunities for all of you to keep providing thoughts and ideas.

It's not over – ever.

Planning for the future of AMCHP is just like the planning each of us does in our own lives. It's ongoing and perpetual, it changes with time and experience and life's happenings, and the future is often altered by our shifting environments and what's happening in our lives from one year to the next. Perhaps the most exhilarating thing I've heard from you so far is that you LIKE this. You enjoy contemplating the future, considering the hurdles and opportunities, thinking about what your needs are now and later. So, we're going to keep at this and consider our planning together to be something of a routine. The questions may change over time, but you're going to have lots of chances to keep engaged and to continue to add your mark to this organization well beyond this year.

We don't know what we don't know.

This is often referred to as the known unknown. In some cases, it can be oddly comforting once you accept that we simply cannot account for unknowns. We can only be realistic and recognize that they are out there. But, we can be large thinkers. Given our love and passion for making things better for moms, dads, kids and families, we all have the capacity to envision better health outcomes, improved well-being, and healthy children and healthy families living in healthy communities. So, even if we don't quite know what we don't know in terms of the future, it's okay. We work with what we do know, envision where we'd like to ultimately be, and figure out what it takes to get there.

It's not too late to dialogue with us! We'll continue to listen and learn from you leading up to the June Board meeting when the strategic plan will be finalized. You are encouraged to respond in any number of ways:

Send a personal e-mail response to amchpengage@amchp.org

Comments, counterpoints, suggestions, or thoughts are always welcomed. E-mail me at lfreeman@amchp.org.

LEGISLATIVE & POLICY CORNER

National Day of Action Raises Visibility for Home Visiting Program Reauthorization

On Tuesday Mar. 3, AMCHP joined with dozens of stakeholder organizations in coordinated grassroots and social media action calling on Congress to include an extension of the Maternal, Infant and Early Childhood Home Visiting (MIECHV) program as part of the upcoming Medicare "doc fix" bill expected to pass by Mar. 31. The previous doc fix bill included a full FY 2015 appropriation but set a Mar. 31, 2015 deadline for reauthorization. To date no bill has been introduced, however, AMCHP continues to work with key partners to build bipartisan support for this critical investment. Additional details should be available soon.

Budget Resolutions Expected Soon

Congressional leaders are expected to soon begin crafting Budget Resolutions, which set broad instructions on spending guidelines for FY 2016. While these resolutions often don't include program level detail, they will set the upper limit caps that each appropriations committee is subject to, so in this sense will provide our first early glimpse into how tough of a budget year should be expected. AMCHP policy staff continues to make the rounds sharing information with each key appropriations committee staffer on how the Title V MCH Services Block Grant provides a foundation in every state for programs to move the needle on MCH outcomes.

Health Reform Implementation

Nonprofit Community Health Needs Assessment & Title V

The Affordable Care Act (ACA) requires nonprofit hospitals to complete a community health needs assessment (CHNA) every three years effective Mar. 23, 2012. The flexibility of the CHNA process and the requirement to engage a state health official provides an opportunity for collaboration and coordination of efforts with a state Title V needs assessment process. This type of collaboration may help reduce duplication of efforts and activities within a region. AMCHP has developed a fact sheet that outlines the CHNA process, potential opportunities for collaboration with the Title V program, and highlights a state example from Kansas. If your state Title V program has worked with local, nonprofit hospitals on the needs assessment process, please contact policy analyst, Atyya Chaudhry at achaudhry@amchp.org or 202-775-1474, to share your experience and insight.

HHS Final Rule: Benefit & Payment Parameters for 2016

The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) has recently issued a final notice for benefit and payment parameters. "This rule seeks to improve consumers' experience in the Health Insurance Marketplace and to ensure their coverage options are affordable and accessible. This rule builds on previously issued standards which seek to make high-quality health insurance available to all Americans. The final notice further strengthens transparency, accountability, and the availability of information for consumers about their health plans (CMS 2015)." According to the rule, the next open enrollment period will begin Nov. 1, 2015 and continue for three months ending Jan. 31, 2016. In addition, the rule defines habilitative services using the definition provided in the Uniform Glossary of Health Coverage and Medical Terms. A uniform definition is a step in the right direction in minimizing variability of coverage and benefits and improving the health and well-being of children and youth with special health care needs. The rule also “requires that pediatric benefits be provided until the end of the month in which the enrollee turns 19, which aligns with current industry practice.” CMS has a helpful fact sheet highlighting key policies and the full rule is available on the Federal Register. In addition, CMS posted a letter to issuers, available here. Health policy expert, Timothy Jost, wrote a three piece series on the rule analyzing consumer and provider provisions, insurance provisions, and the letter to federal exchange issuers.

King v. Burwell

On Mar. 4, the Supreme Court of the United States (SCOTUS) heard oral arguments in the King v. Burwell case. This case hinges on the legality of the advance premium tax credits (the “subsidies”). As written, the ACA states that subsidies will be provided only in states that operate their own exchanges. The Obama Administration argues that the law always intended to make the subsidies available to all, regardless of whether an exchange was state or federally run. If the Supreme Court rules that subsidies are not available in the federal exchange, it could result in loss of coverage for millions of people and destabilization of the health insurance industry, rendering coverage unaffordable and inaccessible. The National Women’s Law Center estimates that nearly 6.5 million women would be at risk of losing coverage, further looking at implications by state of residence and race in a recent fact sheet. A ruling is expected in June.

Health Care Coverage: Upcoming Special Enrollment Period and Form 1095-A

CMS announced a special enrollment period (SEP) from Mar. 15 to Apr. 30, 2015. This enrollment period is “for individuals and families who did not have health coverage in 2014 and are subject to the fee or “shared responsibility payment” when they file their 2014 taxes in states which use the Federally Facilitated Marketplaces (FFM). This special enrollment period will allow those individuals and families who were unaware or didn’t understand the implications of this new requirement to enroll in 2015 health insurance coverage through the FFM. For those who were unaware or didn’t understand the implications of the fee for not enrolling in coverage, CMS will provide consumers with an opportunity to purchase health insurance coverage from Mar. 15 to Apr. 30. If consumers do not purchase coverage for 2015 during this special enrollment period, they may have to pay a fee when they file their 2015 income taxes. More information on eligibility and guidelines is available here.

Individuals who enrolled in a health plan through the Health Insurance Marketplace in 2014, received an important tax document, Form 1095-A. Some 1095-A forms that went out to consumers contained monthly premium rates for 2015 instead of 2014. The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) will contact consumers who received an incorrect premium rate and have asked consumers to hold off on filing their 2014 federal income taxes. More information is available from CMS here and from HHS here.

New Opportunity for Title V Agencies and Partners: AYAH-ColIN

The Adolescent and Young Adult Health National Resource Center (AYAH-NRC) is pleased to announce the opportunity for five state MCH programs to participate with key partners in a new Adolescent and Young Adult Health Collaborative Improvement and Innovation Network (AYAH ColIN). The AYAH ColIN presents an opportunity for building your agency capacity to address and improve health outcomes in adolescent and young adult populations through access to unique data sources and analysis, strategic collaboration among public health and health care partners, peer-to-peer learning among a small cohort of states, and intensive assistance from national experts in adolescent and young adult health, quality improvement, and Title V programs.

The AYAH ColIN Request for Applications (RFA) is now available on the AMCHP website here.

To ask questions regarding the RFA or AYAH ColIN, please join us for a RFA Q&A call on Mar. 12 at 3 p.m. EST. Call-in Number: 1-800-591-2259; Passcode: 889331. To join the webinar in Adobe Connect, follow this link to <http://amchp.adobeconnect.com/ayahcolin/>, select “Enter as a Guest” and type your name in the box.

How State and Local Health Departments Can Leverage CDC 2015 Tips Campaign

Media campaigns are part of a comprehensive tobacco prevention and control program. However, funding to support media efforts is often limited. During this webinar, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) will share information about the 2015 Tips from Former Smokers Campaign, including a sneak peek of the advertisements, and a health department will describe how to leverage the national media campaign in a state or local setting. The webinar is scheduled for Mar. 20 from 2-3 p.m. EST and its intended audience includes state and local health departments. To register, click here.

Training on Smoking Cessation for Pregnant Women

The Society for Public Health Education (SOPHE) is offering a workshop in Portland, OR the Smoking Cessation and Reduction in Pregnancy Treatment (SCRIPT) program. This one-day workshop, held Apr. 21, is designed to train health professionals to promote, implement and evaluate the SCRIPT program. The training will provide insight and skills on how SCRIPT can become a part of routine prenatal care. To register, click here or for more information contact Deborah Gordon-Messer at dgordonmesser@sophe.org, 202-408-9804.

Data Collection and Measurement Issues Webinar

On Mar. 16 at 11 a.m. EST, the Council on Patient Safety in Women's Health Care is hosting a webinar on Data Collection and Measurement Issues as a part of its regularly scheduled Safety Action Series. Dr. Elliott Main and Dr. William Sappenfield will cover the following information:

- Describe common data quality, data collection, and measurement issues in small- and medium-sized birthing facilities specifically around obstetric hemorrhage, the quantification of blood loss, and severe maternal morbidity
- Recognize data quality issues in perinatal administrative (claims) and clinical (medical record) data specifically around obstetric hemorrhage and severe maternal morbidity
- Identify solutions to data collection and measurement specifically around obstetric hemorrhage and severe maternal morbidity to show how data quality and data collection problems can be/have been resolved

- Address leveraging vital statistics data (birth certificate, fetal-infant death certificate) to improve measurement capabilities

To register for this webinar, click here.

Upcoming WAPC Annual Conference

The Wisconsin Association for Perinatal Care (WAPC) Annual Statewide Conference brings together state and nationally recognized perinatal experts to address pertinent and emerging perinatal issues. Conference attendees enjoy the benefits of learning from multidisciplinary presenters and colleagues who share a common goal – healthy women, infants and their families. This is a conference for everyone who shares this goal, including, physicians, nurses, public health personnel, social workers, pharmacists, dietitians, therapists, consumers, midwives, administrators and educators. The conference will be held Apr. 26-28 at the Radisson Paper Valley Hotel in Appleton, WI. For more information, click here.

ON YOUR BEHALF

- On Feb. 11, AMCHP convened a meeting of the MCHB Autism Screening and Referral, Diagnosis, and Services (SARDS) Expert Workgroup. In partnership with MCHB, AMCHP staff Treeby Brown, Yadashe Belay, Maria Murillo, Meredith Pyle, Kate Taft and Maritza Valenzuela participated in the meeting and provided facilitation for sessions. CEO Lori Freeman provided a welcome on behalf of AMCHP. The goal of the workgroup is to provide recommendations for statewide approaches to improving developmental and autism screening, referral and follow-up, and entry into services. Recommendations from the group also will help inform AMCHP work to provide resources on screening, referral, diagnosis and services that are being developed through the State Public Health Autism Resource Center \(SPHARC\). Resources will be shared through the SPHARC website later this spring.

- On Feb. 18, AMCHP staff Atyya Chaudhry participated in a dialogue about pregnancy and health care coverage. The discussion centered around a newly released report by Young Invincibles that recommends the need for a special enrollment period for pregnant women. The event included expert panelists from the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists and March of Dimes.
- On Feb. 25, AMCHP staff Atyya Chaudhry represented AMCHP at a briefing, Standing Up for Women and Families: Key Policy Priorities for Women in 2015, on Capitol Hill. This briefing was attended by Sen. Patty Murray and Rep. Tulsi Gabbard. The conversation centered around several key priorities for women including paid sick days, paid family/medical leave, end to pregnancy discrimination, access to quality and comprehensive health coverage and care, among others.
- On Feb. 28-Mar. 3, AMCHP staff Andria Cornell, Piia Hanson, and Megan Phillippi participated in sessions at the 16th Annual National Healthy Start Conference in Washington, DC. This year's conference theme was "Babies, Families, and Communities: Moving from Volume to Value" and sessions focused on the national shift toward a focus on population health and the role of community based programs such as Healthy Start in engaging families in vulnerable communities. AMCHP staff attended sessions aligned with AMCHP priorities including male involvement, addressing social determinants of health and health disparities, and safe sleep promotion.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

DMCHWD Looking for Summer Interns

The Division of Maternal and Child Health Workforce Development (DMCHWD) is seeking intern(s) for Summer 2015. The internship is an unpaid practicum experience for graduate students in good standing at schools of public health or other health-related coursework or training programs in the United States. Students must be enrolled at least half-time in a graduate program (as verified by the student's institution of higher learning). The internship will be located in Rockville, Maryland and is Metro accessible. Intern(s) selected to work with DMCHWD will have the opportunity to help shape their experience based on interest areas. Possible focus areas may include:

- Communications: Contribute to the continued implementation of DMCHWD communications plan
- MCH Workgroups and Committees: Participate in cross-cutting division and bureau efforts around workforce development
- Trainee Engagement: Develop and sustain activities that encourage networking and engagement of current and former MCH trainees
- MCH Training Program Data: Analyze quantitative and qualitative data and produce summary reports
- Grantee Best Practices: Research, compile, and disseminate grantee best practices from the MCH Training Program

Interested candidates are encouraged to submit their resume and unofficial transcript to Claudia Brown at cbrown4@hrsa.gov by Mar. 27. For questions about the DMCHWD internship experience, please contact Claudia Brown as well.

FUNDING

NIH Patient Safety in the Context of Perinatal, Neonatal and Pediatric Care

Deadlines: Mar. 16

A wide range of collaborative research projects related to patient safety in the context of perinatal, neonatal and pediatric care both in routine hospital settings and in the intensive care units related to:

The epidemiology of various domains of medical errors and consequent patient harm; Assessing the factors at various levels that contribute to such errors; and Intervention strategies at individual, systems, and institutional levels to help reduce and eliminate medical errors is encouraged. Available funding includes Exploratory/Developmental Research Grant \(R21\), and Small Grant Program \(R03\).

NIH Pregnancy in Women with Disabilities

Deadline: Mar. 16

Grant applications should propose to investigate the incidence, course, and outcomes of pregnancy among women with disabilities. Areas of interest also include studies to inform counseling and strategies for addressing barriers to prenatal care, and management of pregnancy, the puerperium, and the transition to parenthood in order to optimize outcomes for women with physical, intellectual and developmental, and/or sensory disabilities and their families. Letters of intent are due 30 days before application due dates. Available funding includes Exploratory/Developmental Research Grant \(R21\).

NIH Studies in Neonatal and Pediatric Resuscitation

Deadlines: Mar. 16

Grant applications should propose to stimulate research on a wide range of topics related to neonatal and pediatric resuscitation. It is anticipated that the results from well-conducted studies will enable translation of knowledge into evidence-based resuscitation practices ensuring optimal short- and long-term outcomes for all newborn infants and children. Letters of intent are due 30 days before application due dates. Available funding includes Exploratory/Developmental Research Grant \(R21\), and Small Grant Program \(R03\).

CDC Research Grants for Preventing Violence and Violence Related Injury

Deadline: Mar. 16

The National Center for Injury Prevention and Control (NCIPC) is soliciting investigator-initiated research that will help expand and advance knowledge in three areas: 1) how best to disseminate, implement, and translate evidence-based primary prevention strategies, programs, and policies designed to reduce youth violence; 2) what works to prevent violence by rigorously evaluating primary prevention strategies, programs, and policies; and 3) research to determine ways to effectively prevent serious and lethal interpersonal or self-directed violence. For more information, click here.

MCH Autism Intervention Research Network on Behavioral Health (AIR-B Network)

Deadline: Apr. 21

This cooperative agreement will support an interdisciplinary, multicenter research forum for scientific collaboration and infrastructure building, which will provide national leadership in research designed to improve the behavioral, mental, social, and/or cognitive AMCHP is seeking submissions of emerging, promising and best practices in maternal and child health from all states and territories on child health. Do you have a program that fits?

You'll have a chance to:

- Share successes with your peers
- Enhance the MCH field
- Contribute to program replication
- Get expert feedback from the Review Panel
- Receive national recognition

The online submission process is simple and applications are accepted on a rolling basis. For more information, contact Ki'Yonna Jones at (202) 266-3049 or visit amchp.org/bestpractices.

health and well-being of children and adolescents with Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD) and other developmental disabilities. The AIR-B Network will be one of two HRSA-supported research networks that will provide national leadership in research to advance the evidence base on effective interventions for children and adolescents with ASD and other developmental disabilities, with AIR-B having a focus on addressing behavioral health and well-being. To learn more, click here.

MCH Autism Intervention Research Network on Physical Health (AIR-P Network)

Deadline: Apr. 21

This agreement supports an interdisciplinary, multicenter research forum for scientific collaboration and infrastructure building, which will provide national leadership in research designed to improve the physical health and well-being of children and adolescents with ASD and other developmental disabilities. Physical health may include, but is not limited to, medical, dental, visual, nutrition and speech/hearing components. The AIR-P Network will be one of two HRSA-supported research networks that will provide national leadership in research to advance the evidence base on effective interventions for children and adolescents with ASD and other developmental disabilities, with AIR-P having a focus on addressing physical health and well-being. NIH Initiative to Maximize Research Education in Genomics Diversity Action Plan

Deadline: Sept. 6, 2016

NIH present this funding opportunity to facilitate the training of individuals at all careers levels (the undergraduate, graduate, post baccalaureate, postdoctoral and faculty levels) from diverse backgrounds underrepresented in scientific disciplines relevant to genomics to enable them to pursue genomics research that spans all areas of interest to National Human Genome Research Institute later in their careers. To learn more, click here.

Exploratory and Developmental Grant to Improve Health Care Quality through HIT

Deadline: Nov. 16, 2016

The purpose of this grant is to fund exploratory and developmental research grants that will contribute to the evidence base of how health information technology (HIT) improves health care quality. This funding opportunity supports the use of a wide variety of research designs in order to generate information regarding the design and development, implementation, use, or impact of health IT on quality.
